- 1. Ginger Woolridge presented on the importance of preserving and growing the tree canopy.
 - a. Trees provide a habit for the insects and pollinators; insects especially are important to support healthy hatchlings.
 - b. Ginger is one of the founders of saveourtrees.org, an organization dedicated to promoting trees. Her email address is gingerwoolridge@comcast.net and she is happy to make suggestions about tree care and planting.
 - c. It's critically important to remove the English Ivy from trees to promote tree health and extend trees' lifespan. This is easily accomplished by cutting the ivy at the base of the tree. In time, the ivy will die and be easily removable from the tree.
 - d. When mulching around trees, the mulch should never touch the tree trunk. Leave a small gap between the mulch and the tree trunk.
 - e. The City is in the process of revising its tree canopy goals.
 - f. The County has hired an invasive species specialist to deal with threats to trees and other natural habitats caused by past planting practices.
 - g. Many thanks to Ginger for volunteering her time to protect trees in West Annapolis and across the City.
- 2. Alderman Karma O'Neill presented Ward 2 updates.

- 3. Representatives from the City and SP+ (John Kemp & Jason Kinney) presented on parking zone options for WA.
 - a. The current parking zones have been in place many years, with very little enforcement, i.e. spot enforcement when someone calls in a complaint.

- b. Recent enforcement efforts have resulted in many complaints from residents and businesses. WAES teachers have been ticketed for parking in the residential zone during school hours.
- c. New businesses opening in the neighborhood this Spring/Summer may lead to increased demand for parking.
- d. The City intends to enforce the parking zones going forward unless the City Council passes an ordinance removing or replacing the zones.
- e. The City is looking for feedback from residents about whether to change the zones or get rid of the zones.
- f. Residents are concerned about parking include Monterey during school drop off and pickup; both sides parking makes it one-way and the car line would block emergency responders if they were needed.
- g. Residents are also concerned that the Harbormaster is selling $25 parking passes for the Tucker Street Boat ramp to anyone who wants one, allowing them to take up long stretches of street parking for hours at a time. This is half the cost of a residential parking permit; why should residents be charged twice as much as non-residents?
- h. SP+ has created a document showing proposed zone revisions.
- i. The City has created a website where residents can give feedback about parking zones. They plan to post a survey on the website to gather resident feedback.
